VI- Reading Comprehension & Summary Making (40 Marks)

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

What do you do when you are hungry? If you're like many people, you probably like something sweet for a snack. A tree is like a hungry child because it needs food to grow, and it prefers sugar. It's not exactly the same sugar we find in candy and cookies, but it is a special kind called glucose that makes trees grow.

You might be thinking, 'How does a tree eat the food (sugar)? Trees don't have mouths. They have roots to take in water and minerals, but they don't get food through their roots either. Trees make their sugar in their leaves. The sugar is sent from the leaves into the branches, trunk, and roots. When a tree "eats," it moves sugar from the leaves to all its other parts. When your mom makes cookies, she uses a recipe with certain ingredients. When a tree grows, it uses its own recipe.

Trees grow mostly in spring and summer, where there is a lot of sunshine every day. When fall begins, the days get shorter and there is less sun. This warns the tree to begin getting ready for winter. The leaves begin to turn red, orange, gold, and brown, because with less sunlight and water, the green chlorophyll in the cells of the plant begins to disappear. As winter begins to approach, the tree uses the food it stored during spring and summer, and goes into a rest period.

We plant trees primarily for their beauty and to provide shade, but they do create many other benefits. Trees can sooth and relax us and help us connect to nature and our surroundings. The colour green is a calming, cool colour that helps our eyes quickly recover from strain. By planting and caring for trees, we help improve our surrounding and reduce pollution. Trees absorb harmful gasses from the air and release oxygen.

People cut down trees to make furniture, equipment and paper, but overcutting of trees makes our environment dirty and deserted. Without trees, we could potentially suffer because of lack of oxygen and there would be no life.
