VI-READING COMPREHENSION (12Marks)

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

People began building cars as early as the 1700s. In that time, trains ran on steam engines, but they did not work very well for cars. By 1800s, inventors got to work trying to make cars that would work well enough to use every day.

Once cars were ready to be bought, they were mostly bought by rich people who drove them for fun. Doctors sometimes bought cars because they were better than horses. In 1908, the Ford Motor Company invented the Model T, a comfortable car that was cheap to the average person. It became the most popular car in America, and soon it became common for families to own a car.

Other companies began using the large number of production system that had been successful for Ford, and soon cars were everywhere. Cars began to take on many different styles suited to different customers' needs. There were different types and colours to choose from.

Cars not only changed the way we travel, but also brought communities together for the first time. The ease and speed at which people could travel from the country to the city changed the way we live, work, and spend our free time.
