A robot is a machine. But it is not just like any machine. It is a special kind of machine. It moves, follows instructions, rarely makes mistakes, and it does not get tired. The first real robot was made for making cars as an industrial robot. It looked like a giant arm. 40% of all the robots in the world are in Japan, making Japan the country with the highest number of robots.

Robots are all around us. Some robots are used to make things. For example, robots are used to clean houses. And others can even know words. They can be used to help answer telephone calls. Robots have replaced humans in performing dangerous tasks which humans prefer not to do, or are unable to do because of size limitations, or which take place in extreme environments such as outer space or the bottom of the sea.

In the future, we will have even more robots. They will do things that we can't do, or they will do things that we don't want to do. They will also do things that are too dangerous for us. For example, Robots will help us fight fires and rescue people when they are trapped in burning buildings. They will help us discover things.
