B) Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

Read the following text carefully, then answer the questions below:

Would you like to become a "teleworker"? Teleworkers are people who work for companies, but not in companies. This means that they do company work at home, usually on computers. Teleworkers communicate with their bosses by mobile phones or e-mails. They usually send information from their own computer to the office computer by the Internet.

"Teleworking" is becoming more and more popular in Britain, USA and other countries all over the world. There are many reasons for this development. The biggest advantage for companies is that teleworking lowers the companies' spending of money. Having fewer workers at work means having less office space. Also, computers are now quicker and easier to use, and the prices keep going down. For a company, it is cheaper to train people on computer skills and give them a personal computer to use at home.

However, before you apply for a job as a teleworker, you should ask yourself if it is really the best thing for you. Bill Smith, who works for a big company, hasn't enjoyed his last three months at home. He often falls asleep at the computer because he doesn't have anybody to talk to at home. He decides to leave his job as a teleworker and start a new job in a company where there are five other people in one small office.

a company where there are five other people is	ii one sinan office.
