1) Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage and answer the questions below:

The modern Olympic Games are the leading international sporting event featuring summer and winter sports competitions in which thousands of athletes across the planet participate in a variety of competitions. The Olympic Games are considered to be the world's foremost sports competition with more than 200 nations participating. They are held every four years, with the summer and winter games alternating by occurring every four years but two years apart. Their creation was inspired by the ancient Olympic Games, which were held in Olympia, Greece, from the 8th century BC to the 4th century AD.

Baron Pierre de Coubertin founded the International Olympic Committee (IOC) in 1894. It is the governing body of the Olympic Movement, with the Olympic Charter defining its structure and authority. The growing importance of mass media created the issue of corporate sponsorship and commercialization of the Games. World wars led to the cancellation of the 1916, 1940, and 1944 Games. Large boycotts during the Cold War limited participation in the 1980 and 1984 Games.

The evolution of the Olympic Movement during the 20th and 21st centuries has resulted in several changes to the Olympic Games. Some of these adjustments include the creation of the Winter Olympic Games for ice and winter sports, the Paralympic Games for athletes with a disability, and the Youth Olympic Games for teenage athletes. The IOC has had to adapt to a variety of economic, political, and technological advancements. As a result, the Olympics has shifted away from pure amateurism, as envisioned by Coubertin, to allowing participation of professional athletes.

The Olympic Movement consists of international sports federations, National Olympic Committees, and organizing committees for each specific Olympic Games. As the decision-making body, the IOC is responsible for choosing the host city for each game, and organizes and funds the games according to the Olympic Charter. The IOC also determines the Olympic program, consisting of the sports to be contested at the Games. Moreover, it chooses the rituals and symbols, such as the Olympic flag and torch, as well as the opening and closing ceremonies. Over 13,000 athletes compete at the summer and Winter Olympic Games in 33 different sports and nearly 400 events. The first, second and third place finishers in each event receive Olympic medals: gold, silver, and bronze, respectively.

2) Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage and answer the questions below:

If you enjoy watching crime shows on TV, you know that fingerprints play a large role in identifying people. In fact, it is very old — dating back at least as far as 1885-1913 B.C.E. In Babylon, when people agreed to a business contract, they pressed their fingerprints into the clay in which the contract was written.

Sir William Herschel is generally thought to be the first European to realize that fingerprints were unique to each person. As he looked at more and more handprints, he started to believe that fingerprints were unique; Herschel kept track of his own fingerprints over his entire lifetime.

Dr. Henry Faulds, a British surgeon, began studying the ridges (furrows) on fingertips in the 1870s and he devised a system of classifying fingerprints. Using Henry Faulds's findings, Galton published a major book on classifying fingerprints based on arches, loops, and whorls. His work with Sir Edward Henry on fingerprint classification was the basis of a classification system which is still used by law enforcement agencies in English-speaking countries.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation now uses a variation of the Galton– Henry system. Although the use of fingerprinting in identification originated in Britain. In 1924, two large fingerprint collections were combined to form the foundation of the Identification Division of the FBI. Within the Identification Division, the Integrated Automated Fingerprint Identification Systems can search and find fingerprints anywhere in the United States within thirty minutes.

About one in six Americans has fingerprints on file with the FBI. But not all the fingerprints are related to criminal investigations. People need to have their fingerprints taken for many other reasons. People have their fingerprints taken for employment, licenses, and adoption. For example, when people want to work for the governments in classified, secret jobs, their fingerprints are checked to be sure they do not have a criminal background. When prospective parents adopt a child, their fingerprints are matched against those of all criminals for the safety of the child.

3) Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Mona doesn't like to ask people for help. But it is hard for her to perform daily activities on her own. She is almost 13, yet she is no larger than a 5-year-old a reality which has struck her parents relatives and closest friends they are wondering why such thing happen especially in the absence of hereditary disease in the family. Mona has trouble keeping her balance and can't walk very far. When she uses a wheelchair, she can't push it herself.

Fortunately, Mona has a wonderful service dog named Sam. A service dog is a dog that has been trained to assist someone who has a physical problem. Sam lets Mona lean on him when she walks. He also pulls her wheelchair and turns lights on and off. When Mona drops something, Sam picks it up. He even pulls her socks off at night. Sam also helps Mona with everyday tasks at school. He carries her books from class to class in a special backpack. He puts Mona's completed assignments in her teachers' homework trays. In the lunchroom he throws away her trash.

Besides making Mona less dependent on other people, Sam helps her lead a fuller life. It has become clear for people who know Mona that Sam is the most frequent companion to this unfortunate girl even present more than her parents themselves. How could a dog be so affectionate is something really striking to many? Mona's classmates flock around Sam like geese. This has helped her make friends. Sam also helps Mona be more active. With his aid, she raised over $500 in a walk-a-thon for her local humane society.

Because of Sam, Mona doesn't have to ask people for help. Sam brings her closer to other kids. And he even helps her contribute to her community. To help the disabled of a condition similar to that of Mona's more dogs of Sam's kind should be trained.

4) Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

When we are young, we learn that tigers and sharks are dangerous animals. We might be scared of them because they are big and powerful. As we get older, however, we learn that sometimes the most dangerous creatures are the smallest ones. In fact, the creature that kills the most people every year is the mosquito. Male mosquitoes eat plant nectar. On the other hand, female mosquitoes feed on animal blood. They need this blood to live and produce eggs. When a female mosquito bites a human being, it transmits a small amount of *saliva into the blood. This saliva may or may not contain a deadly disease. The result of the bite can be as minor as an itchy bump or serious as death.

Because a mosquito can bite many people in the course of its life, it can carry diseases from one person to another very easily. Two of the most deadly diseases carried by mosquitoes are malaria and yellow fever. More than 700 million people become sick from these diseases every year. At least 2 million of these people will die from these diseases. Many scientists are working on safer and better ways to kill mosquitoes, but so far, there is no certain way to protect everyone in the world from their deadly bites.

Mosquito nets can be placed over beds to protect people against being bitten. These nets help people stay safe at night, but they do not kill any mosquitoes. Mosquitoes have many natural enemies like bats, birds, and certain kinds of fish. Bringing more of these creatures into places where mosquitoes live might help to cut down the amount of mosquitoes in that area. This is a natural solution. Mosquitoes can be killed with poisons or sprays. Even though these sprays kill mosquitoes, they may also harm other plants or animals. Although mosquitoes may not seem as scary as powerful animals, they are far more dangerous to human beings. But things are changing. It is highly likely that one day scientists will find a way to keep everyone safe from mosquitoes and the diseases they carry.

* Saliva = the watery liquid that forms in the mouth and helps to chew and digest food

A. From a, b, c and d choose the right answer:

1. The main idea of the passage is about.....

- a. being scared of dangerous animals.
- b. the course of life of mosquitoes.
- c. mosquitoes as the most dangerous creatures to human beings.
- d. keeping people safe from mosquitoes.

2. Based on the passage, we can understand that.....

- a. poisons and sprays are the safest protection against mosquitoes.
- b. scientists have found ways to keep us safe from mosquitoes.
- c. the more people a mosquito bites, the easier diseases are transmitted.
- d. mosquito nets can help mosquitoes produce eggs.

3. The underlined word cut down means.....

- a. to transmit
- b. to produce
- c. to protect
- d. to reduce.

4. The underlined word they in paragraph 3 refers to.....

- a. natural enemies
- b. mosquito nets
- c. poisons or sprays
- d. dangerous animals

5- Reading Comprehension

-Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below :

What does science today believe about the content of our dreams?

The subject of our dreams comes from any of several sources. It may come from some stimulus that affects us at the very moment we are dreaming, such as a sound or a breeze blowing over us. The subject may also come from our store of past experience. It may also come from something we are interested in. It may also come from some strong urge we feel.

What about daydreaming? Is there anyone who doesn't daydream sometimes? It's rather nice in fact to daydream. We find ourselves doing some pleasant things, or enjoy a great triumph, or accomplishing something we want very much, or getting something we long to have.

Daydreaming is actually a form of dreaming, only it is done while we are awake. Night dreaming is done while we are asleep. That is the only difference between them, since both are done when the dreamer is so relaxed that he pays no attention to what goes on around him. Then his thoughts can wander wherever they want.

For this reason, both sorts of dreams are often about strange persons, animals or situations that couldn't possibly exist in real life. Night dreams are even more unusual and unrealistic than daydreams because in sleep people have almost no control over what they think. It is interesting to note that there are two kinds of daydreams that children have but adults do not: the daydream of the "imaginary playmate", and the daydream of the "adopted child". A child, if he has few friends to play with, may daydream that he has a playmate. Another child likes to imagine that he is "special" – that he is really a prince and that his real parents are royalty.

From this you can see that in daydreams we usually express something we need or want. In night dreams, we often express not only such things, but also things that frighten us in either cases, the dream is not something that comes from "outside" but is an expression from inside the person. In some cases daydreams help the dreamer to plan ways of doing things in reality.

A) From a, b, c and d choose the right answer

1. An appropriate title for this passage would be.....
- | | |
|----------------------------|-------------------------|
| a) difficulties of dreams. | b) the world of dreams. |
| c) places of dreams. | d) strange dreams. |

6- Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage and answer the following questions:

There is a famous expression in English: "Stop the world, I want to get off!" This expression refers to a feeling of panic, or stress, that makes a person want to stop whatever they are doing, try to relax, and become calm again. 'Stress' means pressure or tension. It is one of the most common causes of health problems in modern life. Too much stress results in physical, emotional, and mental health problems.

There are numerous physical effects of stress. Stress can affect the heart. It can increase the pulse rate, make the heart miss beats, and can cause high blood pressure. Stress can affect the respiratory system. It can lead to asthma. It can cause a person to breathe too fast, resulting in a loss of important carbon dioxide. Stress can affect the stomach. It can cause stomach aches and problems digesting food. These are only a few examples of the wide range of illnesses and symptoms resulting from stress.

Emotions are also easily affected by stress. People suffering from stress often feel anxious. They may have panic attacks. They may feel tired all the time. When people are under stress, they often overreact to little problems. For example, a normally gentle parent under a lot of stress at work may yell at a child for dropping a glass of juice. Stress can make people angry, moody, or nervous.

Long-term stress can lead to a variety of serious mental illnesses. Depression, an extreme feeling of sadness and hopelessness, can be the result of continued and increasing stress. Alcoholism and other addictions often develop as a result of overuse of alcohol or drugs to try to relieve stress. Eating disorders, such as anorexia, are sometimes caused by stress and are often made worse by stress. If stress is allowed to continue, then one's mental health is put at risk.

It is obvious that stress is a serious problem. It attacks the body. It affects the emotions. Untreated, it may eventually result in mental illness. Stress has a great influence on the health and well-being of our bodies, our feelings, and our minds. So, reduce stress: stop the world and rest for a while.
